

Art. 4

“The Republic recognises the right of all citizens to work and promotes those conditions which render this right effective. Every citizen has the duty, according to personal potential and individual choice, to perform an activity or a function that contributes to the material or spiritual progress of society.”

ART.4

The fourth article of the Italian Constitution recalls what the first article of the same affirms being the foundation of the Republic: work.

This article makes understand the importance attributed to work in the environment of the State.

Work isn't only a means of existence to deal with the material needs, but it's even a necessary tool to affirm your own ability and personality.

Each job has its own importance, all the jobs are respectable and all the workers contribute to the development of society.

The State puts effort into promoting social and economic politics that support the conditions for the full employment.
